HEALTHWEAR WITH SILVERTECH®

For centuries, silver has been known around the world as a safe, natural material with the ability to prevent infection. In the classical era, Hippocrates wrote of silver's usefulness in wound care, and at the start of the 20th Century, doctors used silver sutures to reduce the risk of infection following surgery.

It's this exact quality which makes STENCIL® SilverTech® garments ideal for the Aged and Healthcare Industry – and while many antibacterial treatments diminish over time, SilverTech® retains its beneficial characteristics even with regular washing.

To create SilverTech®, nano-scale silver is applied to raw yarn before the cloth is woven, allowing the silver's antibacterial characteristics to permeate each thread. Because SilverTech® is yarn-treated, there's no chemical 'coat' or 'layer' which can wear away. Additionally, because there's no chemical coating to the fabric, SilverTech® maintains its open weave, breathing like cotton and ensuring comfort even in the warmest of weathers.

Moisture wicking and highly breathable with a light, silky finish, SilverTech® draws excess heat and moisture away from the wearer, giving the fabric a 'clean' feeling even after extended wear – a perfect fabric for the Aged and Healthcare Industry.

HEALTHWEAR WITH COOLDRY[®] & NANOGEAR[®]

Stencil Cool Dry[®] products are yarn treated to provide a long-lasting cool dry effect that sets them apart from other shirts on the market. First introduced in 2002, Stencil Cool Dry[®] has a very soft and silky texture and is manufactured using high quality yarn and the latest technology.

Offering an even higher level of performance, Stencil NanoGear[®] actively repels moisture. Even traditionally problematic substances, and fluids simply roll off the surface without being absorbed.

This incredible stain resistance is achieved using a nanoscale coating of specially developed polymer applied to raw yarn. By changing the surface qualities of each individual strand of fibre, Stencil is able to fundamentally alter how the finished fabric interacts with liquids and other potentially staining substances - all without a protective layer that can wash off, or wear away over time.

In addition to their core characteristics, all Stencil[®] high-tech fabrics are imbued with an increased resistance to wrinkling and creasing, creating fabrics perfectly suited to modern Aged and Healthcare applications.
